1. [REDACTED] William McAfee, of Department of State, called concerning the "American Council" type bills on which the Department has been asked to comment by Representative Morgan (D., Pa.), Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. McAfee said that after checking in the Department of State it was the consensus that there was no point in commenting on any of the bills until the report of the Rusk Committee has been published. I indicated this decision is fine with us and we will be happy to cooperate with State whenever they feel the time is opportune to prepare the reports.
